Szászka performs village dance music from Transylvania and Hungary for events and workshops in the United States. The group has studied with musicians in Hungary and Transylvania, as well as with bands from those areas when those bands have visited North America and the Netherlands.

Nienke Shinkevich (fiddle), Doug Code (kontra), and Sara Bruins (bass, gardon) formed the band in Madison, Wisconsin in 1996. Nienke now lives in Washington D.C., where she continues to practice Hungarian and Transylvanian folk music.

This event is co-sponsored by The International House Global Voices & Performing Arts Series
